Alabama Detailed Policy

Medicaid Telehealth Reimbursement	Summary	Alabama Medicaid reimburses for live video under some circumstances. The Agency will not reimburse providers for origination site or transmission fees. For all telemedicine services, an appropriately trained staff member or employee familiar with the patient’s treatment plan must be immediately available in-person to the patient. Source: AL Medicaid Management Information System Provider Manual, (p. 28-17), January 2020, AL Admin. Code r. 560-X-6-.14, (Accessed Feb. 2020). They make no reference to store-and-forward reimbursement, but the program reimburses for In-Home Monitoring through the Alabama Coordinated Health Network program for diabetes and Chronic Heart failure, although it’s not considered to fall under the telemedicine program. Source: AL Medicaid Management Information System Provider Manual, (40-33), January 2020 (Accessed Feb. 2020).
	Definitions	There is no explicit definition of “telemedicine” given in state Medicaid policy. However, the provider manual states, “Services must be administered via an interactive audio and video telecommunications system which permits two-way communication between the distant site physician and the origination site where the recipient is located (this does not include a telephone conversation, electronic mail message, or facsimile transmission between the physician, recipient, or a consultation between two physicians).” Source: AL Medicaid Management Information System Provider Manual, (28-17), January 2020. (Accessed Feb. 2020).
	Live Video	Policy Alabama Medicaid reimburses for live video for certain services. Source: AL Medicaid Management Information System Provider Manual, (28-17), January 2020 & AL Admin. Code r. 560-X-6-.14(f)(5), (Accessed Feb. 2020).
